Store Sold

Ernest B. Jackson Sole Owner of Jackson-Greenlaw Company

Ernest B. Jackson in partnership with Mrs. M. E. Greenlaw, proprietors of the Jackson-Greenlaw store, located at the corner of Main and Commercial streets, have decided to sell the store and its contents to Mr. J. H. Brown, of Bangor, Maine. The sale will take place on Friday, July 28, at 10 o'clock. The store has been in the hands of the Jackson-Greenlaw family for many years and has been one of the most successful in the city. The new owner, Mr. Brown, is a well-known merchant and is expected to continue the business in the same successful manner.

Pine Tree League

Norway-Paris 6; Wilton 3.

Norway-Paris closed in on Wilton after the opening of the Sunday game on the fair grounds and scored in regular order.

Wilton opened like regulars in their opening game with three rather easy runs from four hits. That ended the score getting and eight innings of blanks followed in spite of eight hits for a game total.

Tony Lombardi, the new manager for Norway-Paris led his team at the bat with a double and two singles. Hildreth snatched out a pair of two-runners and the spirit of friendliness they brought to us from Panama, a distance of 5,000 miles.

The boys travel eight days each way by water and the trip from New York to Norway is made in New England and Maine busses.

When interviewed by Mr. Dunham of the Ethel May Shorey Players, Mr. Burgess spoke very highly of the people of Norway and South Paris and their interest in the boys of the Ethel May Shorey.

Mr. Burgess stated that he is leaving back all his equipment when they start back home August 9, as they are to be back again next year.

The Scout movement has the greatest influence on the youth of our country, giving them citizenship, character, honor and the training which will make for the uplift of our youth and better citizens of tomorrow.

It is with pleasure and a feeling of friendship that Miss Shorey welcomes this splendid group of boys as her guests August 1st.

FORMER NORWAY PRIEST

Rev. James E. Redden, a native of Providence, who served in several Maine parishes, died in St. Joseph's Hospital, Tuesday, July 25, where he underwent an operation five weeks ago. He suffered a long illness, and came here for treatment six weeks ago. He was in his 64th year.

Fr. Redden was born in Providence, Dec. 2, 1868, a son of Martin and the late Mary Mattemore Redden, and received his education in the Holy Cross, LaSalle Academy, St. Charles College and the Grand Seminary in Montreal. He was ordained in the Roman Catholic priesthood, Dec. 21, 1915, in St. James Cathedral, Montreal.

His first assignment was to St. Dominic's Church in Portland, Me. From there he went to the Immaculate Conception Cathedral in that city for a short time before becoming pastor of St. Catherine's Church in Norway, Me. Subsequently, he was pastor of St. Michael's Church in South Berwick, and last March 14 was transferred to the pastorate of St. Joseph's Church in Eastport, where he had since served.

Besides his father, he leaves a sister, Mrs. Mary Redden, and a brother, John, who is the pastor of St. Joseph's Church in Eastport.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock on Friday, July 28, at St. Joseph's Church in Eastport.

Around Lake Pennessessee

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Parnell, Miss Mary Stearns and Frank Youngblood of Portland, Me., are on a vacation of two weeks at the Percy Pogg cottage, Lake Pennessessee.

They are participating in an abundant sport at the swimming meet and boat races next Sunday under the auspices of the American Legion and Panama Scouts.

If the weather is fair, probably every available boat will be on the scene.

Ten girls occupy the H. D. Bennett cottage this week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stahl and Mr. and Mrs. E. Stahl and Mr. and Mrs. E. Stahl are in the Robert Aldrich cottage, formerly the Fred S. Brown place.

A new boat is moored at the Donald B. Currier cottage, Lake Pennessessee.

A fishing party from Poland Spring landed two bass each weighed 6 pounds.

It is expected this week at the E. B. Miller cottage.

Those familiar with the situation say the lake is beginning to turn over. As the water turns over, the water will be early in August has a spell of going into a commotion that stirs up the bottom and takes the water. We are told fishing is not so good during the turn over.

Wagonmen are anticipating a good season. The Advertiser readers about it.

Henry Smart and other boys are making a bit of change catching frogs for the purpose of catching them.

Carnival

Norway Country Club

The annual Carnival, sponsored by the Norway Country Club will be the big event on Saturday, August 5, from 1 p. m. to midnight, July 28.

This show will be presented on the club house grounds near Norway Lake and promises to be a colorful affair.

Many of the features among other attractions, a shooting gallery, horse racing and numerous games of skill. A Chevrolet car will be given away to attract a crowd to the grounds.

Sixty Boy Scouts and leaders from Panama will have a prominent part in the free vaudeville entertainment.

The boys will be singing songs and dancing with theatrical talent. They will appear in uniform and have full run of the grounds as guests of the Country Club.

Dancing on the broad verandas will be in order.

The New Bank

Norway National Bank Leased Banking Rooms of the Casco

Matters have progressed in the new bank to the point where the only thing now delaying the opening is that less than twelve subscribers to stock have yet paid 50 per cent of their subscriptions, which is required before approval will be granted by the Comptroller of the Currency. It is expected by the directors that this will be paid so that the necessary papers may be forwarded to Washington this week. It is quite gratifying when one considers that there are 114 subscribers, that all but a mere handful have promptly paid in at least 50 per cent of their subscriptions, and that one-half of these have paid their subscriptions in full.

When the directors are able to certify that each subscriber has paid at least 50 per cent of his subscription, papers will be immediately forwarded to Washington. Then there will be some delay while the Comptroller of the Currency considers the matter. It is expected that it will be about a week before the bank will be ready to open for business.

church and town. Ever ready to give of her time and strength in building a better community, she was very active all through life until stricken with illness. Beauty in Nature was a joy to her. She found God in her lovely flower garden and vegetable garden as well, where she spent many hours keeping weeds out of the soil.

Mrs. Monroe was a member of the Methodist Church, the Kappa Chapter No. 12, O. E. S., and had been a member of Bear Mt. Grange, No. 62, for many years, a Silver Star member, and recently became an honorary member. She was the life of social gatherings she attended, quick-witted and full of humor. This sense of humor she retained during her months of weakness and pain. Her patient suffering was a marvel to those who cared for her.

She was ready and happy to go into the Great Beyond, but she was so sadly missed by her immediate family, her seven grandchildren, Helen E. Buff, Louise, Frank A. Jr., Richard A. and Robert E. Monroe of Melrose, Mass., and Doris M. Monroe of Calwell, N. Y., two sisters, Mrs. Wallace Perkins of Bangor and Mrs. W. W. Smith of Springfield, Mass., several nieces and nephews, besides hundreds of friends, that she could not get on.

The funeral was held at the home on Sunday afternoon, July 16th, at 2 p. m. Rev. F. B. Lyman of Naples, many years a friend of the family, and Rev. Wilbur Bull spoke words of comfort. The many and beautiful floral pieces so silently proclaimed the love and esteem given her by relatives, neighbors and friends.

She was laid to rest in the family lot in Elm Vale cemetery. Bearers were Murray E. and Merton Brown of East Otisfield, Albert W. Hamlin and Marion Rogers.

FROM MY WINDOW

Evil L. Shorey

A few years ago, an interesting bit of writing appeared, entitled "A Hill Top on the Maine," telling the story of a woman who had selected a country home in France where she thought it would be quiet, peaceful, and secluded, in which to pass her middle age, and probably the remainder of her life, which had been busy one. She soon found, however, with the outbreak of the World war, that instead of being in a quiet spot, she was in the midst of turmoil, drama, suffering of which she had little dreamed, and her plan to retire from the world was entirely changed.

In the dramatic, startling, retiring and withdrawn of this experience, mine has little in common. In one respect, however, I often think of this woman's story as being like my own experience, for the quiet, country road, which formerly and long ago I had dreamed of, has vanished from the picture. It has been absorbed by a macadam highway, which we call "the black road," but more accurately the Roosevelt highway, which extends over the country from Portland, Maine, to Portland, Oregon, Route 18, it is designated in the guide books. Some of it is a good road, but by in all kinds of motor vehicles, from every State in the Union, and many from Canada. It is the route to Montreal as far as travel of one kind or another is concerned, all night long past our house and some times in both directions. The day of the stage coach, hackboards, and "teams" of all descriptions, has gone. Once this was used by the town fair as a race course, and my older brother received a bad injury, the child, by being run over by one of the race horses. Often we are in danger of being run over by the autos as we try to cross the street. Home folks, State and National celebrities, pass our door. My father, who was a military man in the Civil War, and very punctilious as to military customs, had the great honor, to him, of standing on his front porch, and saluting his commander-in-chief at that time, President Harding, when the President made his vacation trip to New Hampshire, years ago. I can still see the great parade of automobiles, flying across the bit of blue sky. We saw the greater part of the eclipse of last year from the lawn beside the house.

So, in this short series of articles for the Advertiser, I hope to tell some of the everyday happenings which impress me, as I sit at my typewriter, peering out of my window of our home, looking out on the Roosevelt highway, the trees, lawns and gardens, on both sides of the road, the farm house, schoolhouse, and Farragut Memorial Park, with the radio just behind me for the news broadcasts. The first one will be about the Lily pool which has been under construction on the west lawn, of great interest to all the neighborhood, and comparing it with the Lily pool, or frog pond, as we called it, behind the house which was a great source of amusement to members of our family when we were children.
